Council Needs Agency to Share Rent at City Hall

The Seaside City Council at its last meeting tried to find the solution to a dilemma that is now facing them. They need to find an agency that can pay rent to share facilities at the old city hall with the Monterey Peninsula Antipoverty Council.

Dominic and Nina Mineo, who now own the building, propose to lease it back to the city at $500 a month. At first it was thought that the Monterey County Legal Aid Society of Young Adults for Action would be able to share the building.

Jane Van Hook, directing attorney for legal aid, however, decided against the move for her agency because she feared that it would not be a private enough place for proper client-attorney relationships to flourish.

YAFAs officials expressed little interest in the proposition. They said that they wanted a house, formerly used as redevelopment agency staff offices, in the Hannon Redevelopment Project as their headquarters.

James Golden, YAFAs rehabilitation director, explained to the council that they are involved in the rehabilitation of convicts and the central location of the house is more conducive to their work. The move is supported by the California Commission on Criminal Justice, which provides many of their funds. Golden also said that his group was willing to pay $100 to rent the house.

However, the city council were not overly enthusiastic about this proposal. A motion by Glenn Loea to endorse YAFAs application, which comes before the redevelopment agency soon, died for lack of a second.

Lee Toler, executive director of YAFAs, then told the council that he wouldn't give $200 a month for the space they now have rent-free in the city hall. He was referring to the balance of the total rent asked by the Mineos.

When a proposal was made that the antipoverty agency yield some of its space to YAFAs was made, Toler told the council he would like to study the matter further and pursue the request to the redevelopment agency before committing his group to any permanent arrangement in the old city hall.

In other action at the meeting, the council set a $2,000 ceiling on the dues Seaside will pay to the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments.

According to AMBAG, Seaside dues would be $2,800, but that is based on city population, which includes the annexed areas of Fort Ord. However, the council feels, this is an unfair way to assess dues. The Fort Ord population of 15,000 are not served by the city or contributing to its tax base.

According to Mayor Louis Haddad, the $2,000 ceiling is the amount that Seaside should pay excluding the military population.

Candidate's Luncheon Is Planned

The Democratic Monterey Women's Club will sponsor a candidate's lunch Wednesday, April 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Thompson, 2745 Raymond Way, Carmel. It will begin at 12 noon.

Five candidates for county supervisor will be present. They are Warren Church, Jack Simon, Oliver Murray, Roger Poyner and John Sigorney.

Mrs. Jane Van Hook, candidate for superior court judge, will also be at the luncheon. The public is invited to attend. A donation of $1.50 for lunch is asked. Door prizes will be awarded.

Science of Mind Classes

Persons interested in the power of thought to change conditions are invited to a course in Science of Mind principles and practice.

Leader of the fifteen weekly classes is Mrs. Adine Williams, licensed Religious Science practitioner and experienced teacher of classes in Science of Mind.

The series is sponsored by the Religious Science Society of Seaside. First class meets Wednesday, April 5, at 8 p.m. in the Multi-purpose Room of Del Monte Manor, corner of Yosemite and Sonoma.

(By Clint Porter during the absence of Andy Barragan)

When I walk the last mile of the way / I shall rest at the close of the day / And I know He's got joys that await me / When I walk the last mile of the way.

That depicts the confidence of a person who knows he has done, with satisfaction, all that was assigned for him to do. His job is done. His mission is finished. He is prepared to meet his Maker with his head held high. He has just made the "turn in the road" for the Last Mile of the Way. There is no turning back now. The Moving Hand has writ. This person is now ready, able and willing to accept all the joys that have been promised him. For he knows he will be received.

Can you picture this person? From the time of his early youth, when he first made up his mind to walk the straight and narrow, he did only the things that were expected of him. He attended Church regularly. He gave willingly his share for the support of his Church. He was very active in the affairs of his Church. And he never let his Church down when things were demanding. He was a good man. And he knew it. Now he has taken the first step of the "Last Mile of the Way". He is pleased with himself. There is absolutely no turning back now. Picture yourself, if you dare? Cranston Praises Nixon Decision

Senator Alan Cranston recently praised President Nixon's decision to ask for full funding of a new two-year, $250 million program of low-cost meals for the aged.

Cranston, who authored a key amendment that increased California's allotment under the program by $3.8 million, called the President's action "highly praiseworthy and good news for more than 2-1/2 million elderly Californians."

The President signed into law S.1163, the Nutrition Bill for the Elderly, recently. At that time he announced that he would add onto his fiscal 1973 budget a request for a $100 million appropriation for that year. The bill authorizes $150 million for fiscal '74.

The new law provides for the "establishment, maintenance, operation and expansion of low-cost meal programs, nutrition training and education programs" for the elderly, along with increased "opportunity for social contacts."

Cranston's amendment boosted to $21,285,000 California's two year allotment under a formula that gives states with the largest number of elderly persons a greater share of the funds than had originally been proposed. The original formula would have given California $17,485,000.

California's 2,571,000 residents who are 60 or over compose 9 percent of the nation's total of 28,936,000 in that age bracket. Only New York with 2,813,000 (9.7 percent) has more.

A second Cranston amendment, which is also part of the new law, authorizes special meals for the sick, such as heart patients or diabetics who may need salt-free, low cholesterol or carbohydrate diets. Cranston pointed out that 8 out of 10 elderly persons suffer from some chronic ailment, double the incidence in younger people.

Cranston, a member of the Senate Labor Subcommittee on Aging, had co-sponsored the Nutrition Bill. It was introduced by Senator Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Luncheon For Elderly Is Monday

Monday, April 10, at 12:30 p.m. is the day the Alliance on Aging will have another Friendly Visitor $1 group luncheon at Perry Boys' Restaurant.

Any elderly resident of the Seaside or Marina area who would enjoy the companionship of others is invited to attend. For information telephone 375-9821, Ext. 266.

At 1:30, after the luncheon, Kay Hillard, Home Economist, will speak. Her subject will be "Basic Foods to Creative Foods." Every person who attends will be given a door prize of a New Zealand spinach plant which can be grown in home vegetable gardens.

Remember the date, Monday April 10 at 12:30. Come, enjoy a pleasant lunch, learn more about nutrition and renew old acquaintances at the Alliance of Aging Friendly Visitors' nutrition lunch.

Register to Vote Saturday

This Saturday, April 8, has been designated "Registration Day 1972" by the Democratic State Central Committee's Registration Committee. On this day, voter registration tables will be located throughout neighborhoods in Northern California in a concentrated effort to register voters for the June 6 Primary Election. April 13 is the final day to register for the June Primary.

In preparation for Registration day, registration door-hangers, listing the locations of the voter registration tables, have been distributed in many communities in Northern California.

Although Registration Day is being sponsored by the Democratic State Central Committee, all unregistered voters, regardless of party affiliation, will be registered at the voter registration tables.

For further information, call the Democratic State Central Committee's Northern Office at 415/864-1015.

Music For Youths Concerts Sunday

The first two of four free public concerts scheduled for this month will be presented this Sunday, April 9, as part of the MUSIC FOR YOUTH project being conducted throughout April in San Benito, Santa Cruz and Monterey Counties.

This Sunday's two concerts, both directed by internationally known conductor Carmen

Dragon and featuring a talented young California soprano, Claudia Cummings, will be held as follows:

Sunday at 2 p.m., San Benito County High School, Hollister; and Sunday at 7:30 p.m., King Hall, U.S. Naval Postgraduate school, Monterey.

Appearing with the professional artists will be a youth orchestra and chorus, comprised of over 100 high school music students from the three-county region.

MUSIC FOR YOUTH, which was developed by the California Arts Commission in cooperation with the California Music Educators Association, is co-funded by Standard Oil Company of California.

MFY has three prototype touring programs, each designed to be presented in areas of sparse, medium or heavy population density.

Model I (sparse density) was introduced with an 11-day tour of Del Norte and Humboldt Counties last November. This first effort involved 49 schools, 6,500 students, 10,000 adults who attended six community concerts and 64 local coordinators.

Pacific Telephone to Hire More Minorities

A program by Pacific Telephone to hire and promote minorities and women into jobs in all phases and at all levels of the company is now in full swing in Seaside and throughout the state.

Don Boston, local PT&T manager, said "It will provide equal opportunity, in the truest sense of the word, to all who qualify. That is why we call it the company's 'Affirmative Action' program. It is a signed document with the federal government and the company has pledged its full resources to make it work."

It means that in the future there will be more women in traditionally men's jobs and vice-versa; there will be more employment of Blacks, Spanish-surnamed and other minorities in jobs of increasing importance in the management of the company, even to the highest levels.

"This is not just a numbers game. It is a plan to assure that all employees have an equitable opportunity to develop to his or her full potential," he said.

Boston said Pacific Telephone is no stranger to equal opportunity, having made its intentions clear as early as 1962 when it became one of the first signers of the "Plans for Progress," a pact among the nation's employers to provide equal opportunity and advancement.

"In ensuing years, the company's hiring of minority race employees has risen steadily," Boston said. He noted that on a companywide basis:

*Of new employees hired in the past four years, one out of four has been either Black, Spanish-surnamed, American Indian or Oriental.

*Pacific Telephone employs more than 16,500 minority people--about 17 percent of all employees. This compares with a minority population in

Celebrate

This Saturday, April 8, will be Pearl Carey Day.

To celebrate this day, there will be an old fashioned picnic at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. The public is invited to attend--free of charge. There will be free soul food and music, starting at 11 a.m.

California of 22 percent.

*One-half of all jobs and about one-third of all management positions are held by women in Pacific.

*Progress is being made where weaknesses exist; there now are more than 1,350 minority managers at Pacific telephone, almost double the number three years ago.

*Pacific aggressively seeks minority employees in recruitment programs; conducts remedial training programs for new hires; and runs work/study programs in high schools.

"But this is not enough," Boston said. "Our sights are aimed at changing the male/female and racial distribution of the entire company, from top to bottom, both in Seaside and throughout the state."

How is Pacific Telephone going to reach its avowed aim of equal opportunity without regard to race or sex? Boston said PT&T has declared two goals.

"First, we plan to have a work force whose racial 'makeup' is indirect relationship to the area it serves. We call this 'population parity.' For example, if a certain city's population is 20 percent minority, then our work force will be 20 percent minority," Boston said.

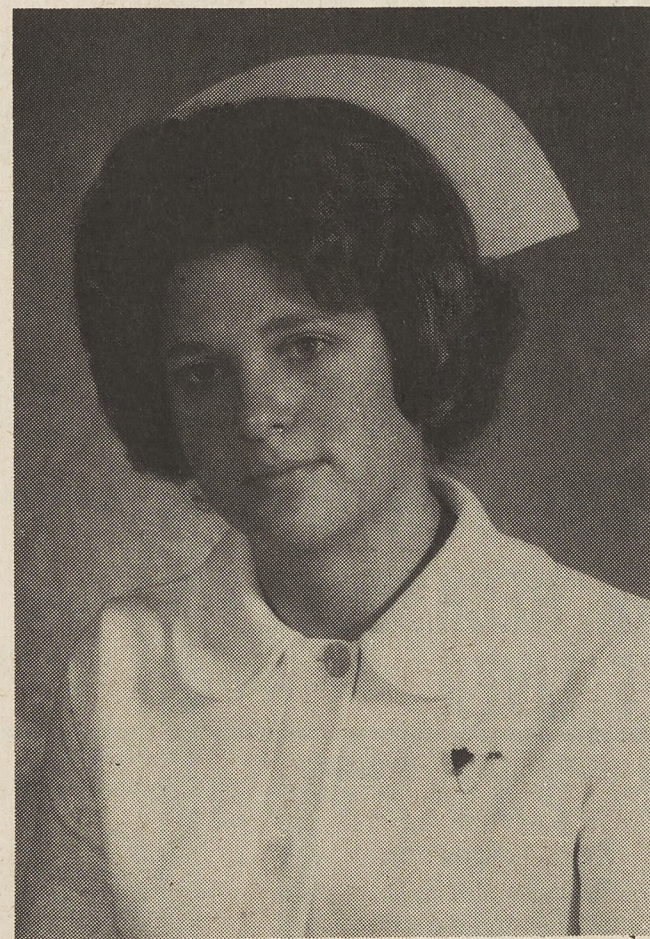

"And second, we want to have a direct ratio between the men and women in management and the groups they supervise, which we call 'employee parity.' That means if one department is 75 percent female, then 75 percent of its bosses will be female, too."

Boston said that while some areas within the company are already close to or right at the proposed parity levels, Pacific telephone expects to be at statewide "population parity" by 1980, and "employee parity" by 1990.

He pointed out, however, that the attainment of employee and population parity does not envision the displacement of any white-make employees. One of the key factors in reaching this goal will be the continuing growth of the company and its work force.

"Affirmative Action is really an expansion of opportunity for everyone at Pacific Telephone--a program of inclusion, rather than exclusion," Boston said.

ARMY RECRUITER

THE ARMY CAREER GROUP PROGRAM is another Army voluntary option which allows you to choose your job training course before you enlist. Instead of choosing a specific classroom training course, you select your training from categories called Army Career Groups. Once you qualify, you'll attend basic technical courses or receive on-the-job training in the job opportunity you have selected. You learn by doing, under the guidance of instructors who know their business and how to give you the training you want. This program is particularly desirable, because it lets you select the field in which you would like to work. And you can be proficient, because the Army needs only the best trained men.

The way to enroll in the Army Career Group Program is to visit your local Army Recruiters, tell us what you'd like to do and discuss your capabilities with us. You'll find we are experienced counselors who are able to help you select the job opportunity for which you are best suited.

You will be explained the various job opportunities currently available. Once you have made your choice, you'll take aptitude tests ...and receive a physical examination. If you qualify, you'll receive the training you want. In fact, your choice is guaranteed to you in writing before you enlist. At the time your enlistment records are prepared, your enlistment option is further assured by being incorporated and written into your records.

For more information concerning the Army Career Group Program, contact us at our office, located at 431 Webster Street, Monterey or call us at 372-4742/372-0553.

Faure's Requiem In Concert

The thirty-five voice Chancel choir of the Pacific Grove First United Methodist Church directed by John Farr will present the well known "Requiem" of Gabriel Faure. String orchestra, harpsichord and organ will assist in the performance and the strings and harpsichord will add to the program with the Corelli "Concerto" Op. 6 & 8.

Soloists for the Requiem are Suzanne Gallaher, soprano and Robert Armstead, baritone. Mrs. Gallaher, a highly trained and well-known musician is a regular member of the Chancel Choir. Mr. Armstead is well known for his many solo appearances locally, particularly with the Peninsula Choral Society.

The string orchestra consists of regular members of the Monterey County Symphony. They are Vernon Brown, Leo Stuckens, Jean Curtis and Barbara Eller, violin; Nanske van Eeghen and Sharon Jones, viola; Jochem van Eeghen and Christiane Tauber, cello.

Richard Jesson, recently retired head of the organ department at San Jose State College and a new resident of Pacific Grove, will be performing on his own harpsichord.

chord. Fred G. Lewis will be at the organ console. Mr. Lewis has been the church organist for the past eight years. This will be one of his major performances before his retirement at the end of April.

The Concerto by Arcangelo Corelli will be directed by Leo Stuckens, violinist, who also furnished the orchestral parts from his own music library. This concerto is in the form of a Concerto Grosso with a concertant group of two violins and cello. These will be played by Vernon Brown, Leo Stuckens and Jochem van Eeghen.

With a text based on the Mass for the Dead, Faure started composing the Requiem as his personal expression of loss at the death of his father. During the composition his mother also died, resulting in this reaction of a sensitive Christian musician to a profound emotional experience. Faure chose to emphasize the positive Christian philosophy of faith and hope. As a fitting final tribute, this Requiem was last performed on the Peninsula.

The presentation will be in the Sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church of Pacific Grove at four o'clock this Sunday, April 9. The public is cordially invited.

of life do you expect to have behind you, when you reach that point? Will you be proud that you have done the best you could during your short span? Did you walk the straight and narrow? Did you mistreat anyone while you were climbing your ladder? Think! The time you put your hand in the till. Remember? You convinced yourself that the money was really rightfully yours. You had earned it through cunningness, and your "brains" alone were worth more than that. And the time you were caught in an uncompromising situation with your best friend's other half. You haven't forgotten that have you? What was that you told yourself ... oh yes, a friend of yours had hinted that your better half was seeing someone across town and what's good for the goose ought to be fun for the gander. All that was mild, during the time you were really "growing up". You rapidly made points with influential people and got yourself elected to a pretty high position in government. You were skyrocketed off to the Capitol City where you really made a name for yourself. You became nationally known. Constant pats on the back, invitations to all functions in the name of the government you were working for. And under-the-table favors. The situation finally got so bad that you decided to retire from service. You had a few well-healed bank accounts in a couple of overseas banks, so why not take things easy. After a while, to appease your conscious, you gave willingly to your Church. You found yourself even praying once in a while. In a very short while, your hard and reckless life began to catch up with you. Your body demanded more than you were able to give, so you became ill. Your illness came before you had a chance to make amends for your recklessness. You have just turned the corner of the "Last Mile of the Way". There is no turning back. Just that short mile ahead.

Can you make it? No play-acting, no back-slapping, no under-the-table favors. Think about it again, can you make it?

To solve a problem, you need a solution. Much of the unhappiness in a poverty-stricken family life may be related to the picture of the world the children first see. The family has tried to paint a true picture for them, bleak and dismaying as it is. The family says to its young: "It is a terrible place you come to, I'm not sure I can hearten you in any way, although I would like to. I can only say I have survived -- I honestly don't know how -- and you must also survive."

When this kind of message is passed on by a family, it may account for that family's gradual collapse. The family is, in fact, telling its children that it has no skills to pass on, that it has found no sure way to "make it" in society. It is saying that you must fight to live. All you can do is survive, and you MUST do that. This is quite enough to create a problem to any younger generation.

It would be just as chaotic for the poverty-stricken family to pretend to their young that everything is fine. That they will have all the things the middle-class, or upper-class families will have; and let the inflated balloon burst right back into the young's faces when they realize the truth.

Or, without saying anything about poverty or richness during the very early stages of life; but showing kindness and happiness and most of all love towards everyone where the child can see, and helping the child grow with nothing but love in his heart, then when he realizes that there are indeed "classes" of people, his love will be strong enough to accept and love even the ones who have more riches.

The solution is to teach your young love, first. Then teach them of society, coupled with an explanation of circumstances, and they will love you forever. As you join us in a silent prayer and a blessing to our boss, Andy Barragan, he joins us in hoping you had an enjoyable Easter Sunday, like he did. Christ did not die in vain.

Mayor Haddad Reports

Louis Haddad

Last week, a letter to the editor appeared written by a candidate for mayor of Seaside in which criticism was made of the city council's objections to AMBAG's formula for annual dues.

AMBAG assessed Seaside over 43,800 for annual dues based on a population figure which included the population at Ft. Ord. In raising my personal objection, I pointed out the fact that the assessment was unfair, not because the population was not right, but because population should never be used as a basis to compute dues or assessments. It is easy to fill up a city with poor people and say, "now, you have a lot of people, pay a lot."

I say this is wrong because although Seaside has officially 36,000 physically within our borders, only 20,000 of them are being serviced by the city. The Supreme Court found that the method of collecting school taxes was unconstitutional because poor districts had to pay more for the education of their children.

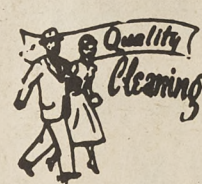

The same applies in Seaside. Actually, the dues should be assessed on a formula based strictly upon revenues, but 50 percent population and 50 percent assessed valuation is better than 100 percent population. A city council would be doing a disservice to their constituents if they didn't object to unfair assessments, and would certainly be remiss if the population at Ft. Ord would be allowed to be used as part of a formula, especially when the federal government is paying considerably already for participation in local programs.

Besides, Ft. Ord is not being serviced by AMBAG and should not, therefore, be included in any assessment.

The candidate criticizes without doing her homework and in one sentence states that she is opposed to paying $3,800 to AMBAG, which is exactly what we were opposed to. Under the new formula, we shall pay approximately $2,000.

Does that sound like EXPLOITATION of Ft. Ord residents?

As I See It

By Mel Vercoe

Is your television set part of your family? Of course not. If it was you wouldn't put up with some of the things it does. Not even for one minute. If you were talking on the phone to a friend in a distant city and your child started yelling in your ear about something you were not even interested in, little Junior could be in deep trouble. But if your television set did the same thing, suddenly blasting with increased volume about the best kind of chewing gum to exercise your dentures with, or the kind of antacid pill that will work the fastest without eating through the lining of your stomach, you not only listen to it without taking your eyes off the screen, but you would put down the phone and protect the dial from anyone who might suggest changing the channel.

Remember the good old days? Television was a dream of the future. Sex movies hadn't invaded most of America yet and a lot of children didn't know much more about sex and ban robbing than they were able to get out of a Sears and Roebuck picture of a corset or from a pulp western story magazine. And those old western story magazines were not much on sex. There was usually just one girl per story. The hero, who saw here just briefly at the beginning of the story, had a lot to keep him busy besides worrying about her. He had to kill at least twenty villains who had been trying to eke out a bare existence rustling cattle, after which he would come back, tired but happy, to collect the fifty dollar reward along with the girl who was then expected to marry him and live happily with him and his horse forever after.

How did they ever do it? Live happily, I mean. With no television, no refrigerator, not even a four barrel carburetor on the Model T touring car they bought with their life savings many years later. You just have to hand it to that older generation.

Letters To The Editor

Editor: Apathy is defined by Webster as meaning a lack of feeling, emotion, or concern. This word best describes the attitude of the people of Seaside regarding a certain topless bar located here in our community.

It is ironic that a community seemingly so concerned with Seaside's image as a hotbed of criminal activities, would allow such a place to operate. In my opinion, it is not only an affront to the moral sensibilities of the people of Seaside, it is also a breeding ground for crime. In my opinion it is the place for top-pushers, pimps and prostitutes to ply their "trades". This is the perpetuation of the very elements the "moralists" of this community purportedly seek to erase. This situation, however, points out glaring contradictions in the moralists' realm of thought. How can they explain the fact that they would move to close down a theater for showing X-rated movies and yet allow a topless bar to flourish? How can they explain their constant efforts to eliminate the criminal elements in the "PI", yet allowing those same elements to function in virtually the same type of setting only a few blocks down the street? A dope-pusher, pimp or prostitute in the "PI" is just as detrimental as a dope-pusher, pimp, or prostitute in an area a few blocks away. These elements have not been eliminated, they have merely been moved from one part of town to another.

Why is it that a young girl is not allowed a chance to find a decent job, but is allowed to sell her body? Why, instead of topless joints, can't we have a community center or a training facility designed to upgrade the skill level of chronicle, unemployed people? These are a couple of the many things the people of our community should begin to think about. Facilities of that sort would be of greater benefit to the community than a topless bar that inadvertently provides a constant mass market for dope-pushers and prostitutes.

Each of our communities should take the time to refocus on the American dilemma which is a moral dilemma; it is a question of needs, morals, and justice. When we began to realize that bars and joints that even if in an inadvertent fashion, provide a back drop for crime and moral disorder, then this type of place can not, in any way, be considered as fulfilling a community need. We must begin to focus on those things that are designed to uplift a community, not tear it down. In that way we will protect our community from the disease of the very elements that are proven contradiction to the very ethics upon which our society was established.

Improved employment opportunities in Government jobs for all people in all levels of government was the subject of discussion at the WESTERN WHITE HOUSE in San Clemente last week when the governor's coordinating council on public personnel management met there for a special study session which I attended.

This Council is composed of 17 members from all parts of California with representatives of the public, universities and colleges, as well as City, County and State Governments. It was an honor for me to be appointed to this body by Governor Reagan to express the thinking and philosophies of County Government in California.

HIGH PRIORITY was given to planning for removal of artificial barriers to employment of the disadvantaged... unnecessary educational requirements for job applicants, training programs to assume high quality on the job performance and assure fair treatment and promotional opportunities by extended to all Government employees.

This Council met in eleven sessions during 1971 and prepared a "CALIFORNIA STATE PLAN" of projects to begin implementing these priority items. Our State plan was sent to President Nixon and has been approved for FEDERAL FUNDING OF OUR CALIFORNIA PROJECTS in the amount of $1,007,000. In 1972 we expect to obtain an additional $1,800,000 to continue the program we have initiated.

Bob Wood Reports

We have all read about the amount of money spent on various political campaigns throughout the State and the Nation. If fact, as many of you know, I was involved in one a few years ago. Because of this experience and maybe because I don't feel any man should be elected on the basis of the money his backers can raise, I am co-authoring a bill this year which will place a firm limit on the amount of money that can be spent on political campaigns.

The huge amount of money spent by both political parties, I feel, could be spent in so many better ways. The time has come to place reasonable controls on campaign spending so that an elective office will not become indebted to a few large contributors.

Numerous clean election bills to tighten campaign spending reports have been introduced in Congress as early as 1925. I personally think it is high time these kind of bills were passed, not only in the State Legislature, but on a nation-wide scale as well. The particular bill I am co-authoring would limit campaign expenditures to a total equal to 25¢ per registered voter in a particular district whether he be running for the Assembly, the Senate, Governor or any other constitutional office.

I have mentioned to you before that there are certain aspects of this job and that of any public representative that one doesn't enjoy. One of these is the raising of campaign funds. It is hoped by the limiting of campaign expenses this might produce better Legislators and in turn allow them to spend more time concentrating on needed legislation and spend less time worrying about where funds will be forthcoming for the next campaign.

Service Signal Tells How To Cut 'Comebacks'

Navy Fireman Recruit David R. Waddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester B. Waddell of Marina, graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center at San Diego.

Navy Airman Recruit ss J. Moore Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore of Seaside, graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center at San Diego.

Captain John W. Van de Kamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Van de Kamp of Sedalia, Missouri, has received the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Albrook AFB.

Captain Van de Kamp, an intelligence officer, was decorated for meritorious service at Albrook. He is assigned to Headquarters, U.S. Air Forces Southern Command which protects the Panama Canal Zone and southern approaches to the continental United States.

The captain, a 1964 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, received a B.S. degree in international affairs and his commission in 1968 upon graduation from the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado.

His wife, Kitty, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.V. Ford, who reside on Susan Avenue in Marina.

Navy Petty Officer Second Class Randall W. Bangert, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.F. Bangert of Seaside, has reported for duty aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Mitscher, homeported at Norfolk, Virginia.

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Robert E. Welch, son of Commander and Mrs. P.R. Welch of Monterey, was promoted to his present rank during ceremonies conducted by the Commanding Officer of the aircraft carrier USS Constellation, now in the Western Pacific with our Seventh Fleet.

He and his shipmates have visited Hong Kong, Japan and the Philippines and are scheduled to return to homeport at San Diego this month.

Andrew J. Johnson of Seaside volunteered for service with the United States Army recently. Johnson is a graduate of Monterey High School and Monterey Peninsula College. He will be trained in the Dental Assistant Field after completion of basic training at Fort Ord.

Addressing Pontiac Motor Division's Master Dealer Conference in Acapulco, Mexico, John C. Bates, director of the service section of GM's marketing staff, said that "about half of all customer complaints on dealer service arise from owners having to return to the dealership because the work wasn't done right the first time."

To help solve this problem, Bates told the dealers that GM is stepping up its emphasis on quality control at every level of manufacturing. He also outlined several steps dealers can take to keep a record of comebacks to find out if the problem exists in their dealership.

"Secondly, find out what customers are saying about your service. Spend time in your service department every day. Listen to what customers are saying...ask them questions...let them know who you are and why you're there," he said.

Bates said it is important for dealers to determine exactly who is responsible for making sure that work is performed right the first time. "Some dealers have established a quality control action plan in their service department and have assigned an individual who is strictly accountable for the quality of the work performed, the price charge for it and meeting the promises given to the customers," he added.

In addition to the "comeback problem," Bates said customers continued to complain about such other inconveniences as "having to take their cars in early in the morning."

Interment was held at Willamette National Cemetery, Portland, Oregon. For further information please call 394-1406 Michael R. Sonnenberg, Funeral Director.

Black Editor Mourned

The flag flew at half-mast on orders of St. Louis Mayor James E. Williams to mourn the recent death of John M. Kirkpatrick, editor and publisher for 29 years of the East St. Louis Crusader and executive director of that city's Human Relations Commission.

Kirkpatrick died at a St. Louis hospital after a long illness.

His foster son, Joe Lewis, will continue publishing the Black newspaper with the assistance of the late publisher's widow, Mrs. Alma E. Kirkpatrick.

Born in 1914 in Wynnewood, Oklahoma, John Kirkpatrick was educated at Fisk and Lincoln Universities.

He started the Crusader in 1914.

He served since 1961 as the first executive director of the East St. Louis Human Relations Commission.

Would Reform Financing

An auto financing reform bill endorsed by consumer groups but opposed by bankers and auto dealers has been proposed for the fourth consecutive year by Assemblyman Henry Waxman (D, Los Angeles).

The measure outlaws deficiency judgments against auto buyers who have their cars repossessed but still must make the payments. Deficiency judgments on other merchandise bought on installments have been banned for years.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi there, fellow Peninsulans:
Spring has sprung! Love is bursting out all over. At this very special time of the year, thoughts of love and marriage has ventured forth to proclaim its virtue on a happy young couple.
After being engaged for more than a year, Celestine Harris and Jack L. Barnes have decided to exchange vows on Saturday, May 20, 1972 at Friendship Baptist Church in Seaside.
Celestine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Purr Harris of Seaside. She is also the sister of Billy Don Harris of San Jose. Her grandparents are Mr. Alex Reeves of Louisiana and Mrs. Roberta Harris of Texas. Celestine is a graduate of Monterey High School and is now attending Monterey Peninsula College, where she is a speech major.

Jack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leavester Barnes of Collins, Mississippi and the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Overson Duckworth of Seaside. He is the brother of Dennis Barnes and Roger Barnes, both of Collins. His grandparents are Mr. Leon Barnes and Mr. Hoisy Newton, also of Collins. Jack has resided in Seaside for four years and has attended MPC, majoring in Data Processing. He is presently employed with Sears.

Also recently, Mrs. Liz Ortega of Seaside and Mrs. Evelyn Carmichael of San Francisco hosted a surprise birthday party for their mother, Mrs. Annie M. Copeland. The March 26 celebration honored her 67th birthday. 50 persons attended this lovely and thoughtful occasion that Liz and Evelyn had planned in honor of their lovely mother. Anne was completely surprised as she stepped through the door of her daughter Liz's home and found all of her church friends of Victory Temple, whom she had just left at church minutes before, along with her daughter Evelyn and her 2 children, Ayanda and Eric of San Francisco. Josephine Frazier, also of San Francisco and Lawrence and Ethel Jones of Sunnyvale, all longtime friends of Annie, were there too. Also singing very loudly "Happy Birthday Annie" in the background were Dr. and Mrs. Brownell of Carmel Valley and Dr. Brownell's secretary, Mrs. Chambers. Mrs. Copeland has been a very close friend and devoted employee of Dr. Brownell's over a number of years. Other special guests were Mrs. Primrose Martin, wife of Bishop Martin of Victory Temple and Miss Edith Mjisanane, a former native of Cape Province, South Africa and now a R.N. at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco. Miss Mjisanane delighted the guests with a delicious chicken curry dish that is a special African delicacy. A delectable buffet, prepared by Liz, was served to the guests. Guests were seated at gaily decorated tables with beautiful floral centerpieces that were sent to Mrs. Copeland by many of her admiring friends. She also received an abundance of lovely gifts.

Another party in Seaside was the victory celebration party that Ted and Toni Cunningham gave at the home of Robert and Verna Sloan in honor of Ted's winning a seat on the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District Board. I missed this righteous gathering due to a previous commitment, but I heard it was very much together and I will say, Amen. Right on to you Ted and here's wishing you a lot of success while serving your term of office on the Board.

Meanwhile, speaking of elections, I wonder how many of you Seaside folks will get out and vote next Tuesday or will you stay home and not vote, as usual and later criticize the persons who were elected and name the others whom you think should have won? It was quite interesting to see the particular candidates that turned up for the N.A.A.C.P. candidates nights and those who did not attend this occasion. Perhaps these conservatives who didn't think it important enough to attend should be recognized by the minorities of Seaside and fingered out for what they represent and whom they represent and whom they will not represent. Mark your ballots on Tuesday, April 11, accordingly. Conservative candidates only function for the middle class voter and the chosen few. Seaside needs a Mayor and Councilmen who will speak out and act for the minority as well as the majorities and since April is "berry pickin' time", think of Berry's when you go to the polls to vote and mark one of your ballots "De Berry" for Councilman. (Smile)
Later on, Betty.

SET DATE - Celestine Harris and Jack Barnes have announced May 20 as date of their wedding. See Betty Mann's column for details.

BROCCOLI WITH CHEESE

In spite of the odor connected with cooking broccoli, it's delicious. Try this version of preparing and baking broccoli and watch the family dig in.

1 pound broccoli;
1 minced onion;
6 tablespoons butter;
4 tablespoons flour;
2 cups milk, scalded;
1 teaspoon salt;
1/4 teaspoon pepper;
1 egg yolk;
1 cup grated cheese;
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs.

Boil broccoli for seven minutes in salted water and drain. In large skillet saute onion in four tablespoons butter until tender, stir in flour gradually and then slowly put in scalded milk, stirring over medium flame until thickened. Add salt, pepper, egg yolk and cheese. Pour half of sauce in greased casserole, then arrange broccoli over it, cover with remaining butter. Bake in 400 degree F. oven for about 20 minutes. Serves six to eight.

Analyzes Nation's Black Studies

A growing number of Black educators are opposed to Black studies and becoming more vocal and active in colleges and high schools to block such programs, reveals a survey by Sepia.

In an article, "What's Wrong With Black Studies," it is revealed that even some of the most ardent supporters of Black studies find that the programs not only do not achieve their stated goals but are sidetracking Black students from getting a good education.

James Turner, head of Cornell University's Black Studies Department—one of the first set up in the nation—says the programs "have fized due to either ineptitude, confusion about what Black studies is supposed to be, internal political conflicts or sheer resistance from white administrators and faculty."

Even more outspoken is Dr. Maceo T. Bowie, Black president of Chicago's Kennedy-King College, who says in the Sepia article:

"There is no need for Black studies as a separate discipline."

Dr. Kenneth Clark, one of the nation's top Black scholars, indicts Black Studies as "continuation of the Jim Crow approach to higher education, tragically compounded by the acquiescence of Blacks themselves."

Summing up the arguments against Black studies, Sepia magazine's Doris Black states the negative aspects:

"Black studies by and large do not qualify Black students for the needs of the academic world and the professions, business and commerce after graduation....Black studies stress rather than diminish racist concepts...Black studies do not have qualified teachers."

UNWANTED

Sepia quotes Black Harvard government professor Dr. Martin Kilson as denouncing Black studies because of "it's contribution to the rise of double standards, treating Negro students and faculty by standards inferior to those applied to white students and faculty," another Black professor who follows this thinking is Dr. Thomas Sowell of UCAL, who says many incompetents are in the field.

"Black people in general have had enough experience with inferior education not to want any more of it," Sowell says.

GROWING

Yet Sepia magazine's survey finds that Black studies "are gaining in acceptance if not in direction and competence."

Some 85 percent of all non-Black junior colleges now offer Black studies courses.

In California alone, 61 colleges offer such classes.

Popularity of the courses has grown, too. In New York's City University the courses now have 1,400 students compared with 180 three years ago. Of the students taking the courses, 40 percent are white. At Fordham University in New York every student is now required to take Black studies in his freshman year.

"With all its setbacks and failures," concludes the Sepia article, "Black studies have scored tremendous advances in the past three years in winning an accepted place in the American educational system. What's wrong with Black studies is not so much a matter of concept or purpose but rather in the practical implementation of an idea that has long been due in coming."

TOMATO

Texas ranks among the leading tomato-producing states.

The Tunney Report

By Senator John V. Tunney

"ITT" stands for International Telephone and Telegraph, a giant conglomerate with business interests ranging from hotel chains in San Diego to communications companies in Chile.

ITT also now stands for controversy, suspicion, page-one drama and public confusion over the basic meaning of all the hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

As a member of that Committee, I have endeavored to learn the truth behind charges that ITT tried to influence the settlement of an antitrust case pending with the Justice Department.

It's not been easy to find the facts. The steam of witnesses before the Committee has produced testimony which—in sum—is full of contradictions and discrepancies.

It must also be difficult for citizens to see through all the daily, growing questions and charges raised in the ITT affair to recognize the fundamental issues involved.

If there had been more safeguards in the system of settling antitrust cases, we would not be in the midst of the ITT controversy now.

There should be a minimum issue facing the Senate is the President's nomination of Richard Kleindienst as Attorney General.

Mr. Kleindienst himself requested the Committee hearings more than a month ago. In his own words, he did not want the Senate to vote on his nomination "with a cloud over my head."

It is my own view that the "cloud" over Mr. Kleindienst's nomination has grown in recent weeks and the the Senate and the Judiciary Committee must continue the hearings before a full vote on the nomination.

The second and deeper issue involved in the ITT affair is the effectiveness of the nation's antitrust laws and the methods used in implementing those laws.

The basic purpose of the law is to preserve a range of choices in our economy by preventing concentration of economic power in the hands of a few corporate giants, that no business enterprise would become so powerful that it is a law unto itself.

Last year the antitrust division of the Justice Department spent months preparing for actions to limit the growth of ITT, then dropped its suits and reached a settlement with ITT our of court.

* A formal public statement should be made by the Justice Department at the time an antitrust case is settled, detailing the reasons for the settlement.

* Any private contacts between corporate officers and high government officials while an antitrust case is pending should be filed with the courts, along with a summary of the discussions at any private meetings.

* There should be greater opportunity for intervention by representatives of the public prior to approval of antitrust settlements by the court.

Tips On Car Safety For Small Children Offered

A growing interest in traffic safety has spurred the manufacture of automobile safety restraints designed for children, according to Don Costa, safety director of the Allstate Insurance Companies.

But many parents don't know which of the host of restraining devices can be used with confidence.

Costa advises parents buying a safety harness for a small passenger to make sure it is labeled as meeting Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 209 Type 3. Car seats should comply with Federal Vehicle Safety Standard No. 213.

Costa also offers these additional suggestions for safe driving with the children:

*Infants should never be allowed to travel in a playpen or even in a parent's arms. A better means of transportation for a baby is in an infant carrier which harnesses the baby inside and is secured to the car seat.

*Children under 40 pounds should not use standard seat or shoulder belts. Like infants, young children should never travel on their parent's laps.

*Children over 40 pounds can wear standard seat belts, but fasten them firmly around the child's hips, not abdomen.

*Say "no" to riding in the cargo area of a station wagon.

*Make sure you have enough seat belts and/or harnesses for all passengers -- back seat as well as front. Using one seat belt for an adult and a child is foolhardy.

Toyota Develops Automatic System

As part of its continuing and extensive research efforts designed to improve Toyota products, Toyota has developed a new system for automatically stopping and starting the engine of a car while it is halted in traffic.

Tests have indicated that elimination of unnecessary engine idling reduces exhaust pollutants by 20 percent and fuel consumption by 10 percent.

The Engine Automatic Stop and Start System (EASSS) is designed to stop the engine of a car when the vehicle's moving speed drops below .43 miles per hour. The engine is automatically re-started when the accelerator and clutch are applied.

The heart of the system is a mini-computer located in the engine compartment. Connected to the computer are speed and water sensors, along with battery, ignition coil, accelerator and clutch switches that all operate automatically and simultaneously.

Allstate Employees Field-Test Air-Bags

Allstate Insurance Companies Chairman Judson B. Branch was the first member of the public to receive an air-bag-equipped car from Ford Motor Company. Allstate is participating in joint field-testing of an air-bag seat-belt restraint system now under development by Ford.

The 1972 Mercury Monterey custom sedan is the first of 200 new Mercurys Allstate is buying for fleet use by selected Allstate employees.

Branch said the undertaking of the joint field test with Ford is "both a privilege and an outstanding opportunity to better serve our customers and the entire motoring public."

"We know that many members of the public, because they do not have all the facts, believe air-bags to be unreliable and dangerous. Members of the Allstate employee family who will drive these air-bag-equipped fleet cars plan to demonstrate that air-bags as presently developed are reliable, safe and have an as yet unrealized people-saving potential," Branch said.

The cars have air-bags installed for the right-front seat passenger side only. The test requires the use of lap belts.

For many months Allstate has been saying in national advertising that there is no time to delay in getting air-bags into cars. It is estimated that if all cars had air bags, front and rear, 24,000 deaths a year could be eliminated, plus hundreds of thousands of crippling injuries.

Under a new United States standard of the Department of Transportation, all 1976 car models will require air bags or other passive restraint systems. In its public service advertising Allstate is helping educate the public in the life-saving needs and benefits of workable passive restraint systems and also is urging car makers to insert air bags in their new general production automobiles prior to the 1976 models if possible.

Free Booklet Gives 'No-Fault' Guidelines

"This Is No-Fault," a booklet explaining "no-fault" automobile insurance and outlining reform guidelines, is being offered to the public by Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies.

Requests for free copies should be sent to Fireman's Fund at P.O. Box 7580, San Francisco CA 94120. In releasing the booklet Louis W. Niggeman, Fireman's Fund chairman, expressed the concern of many insurance leaders in urging California legislators and the motoring public not to settle for less than genuine reform.

The need today, he said, is for a system that ends the finger-pointing and fault-finding in accidents, that pays everyone who is injured and that holds down the cost of premiums.

Niggeman noted that half-a-dozen so-called "No-Fault" automobile insurance bills have been introduced in the state legislature, with more anticipated.

He said that the growing acceptance of such insurance is encouraging, but he warned of the danger of an election year compromise that might result in a system that fails to correct basic faults in the present liability system.

Many of the plans offered, according to insurance leaders, fall short of the reforms deemed necessary by the United States Department of Transportation.

GUIDELINES

True reform under a No-Fault system, according to the Fireman's Fund booklet, would require evidence of insurance coverage in order to register a vehicle.

This insurance should be the primary source of benefits for victims of auto accidents. That would internalize accident costs, distributing them where they belong, exclusively within the motoring public. Other types of insurance, such as accident and health, workmen's compensation or social security, should not contribute to these expenses.

No-Fault insurance should cover the driver, occupants, of the car and any pedestrians who may be injured.

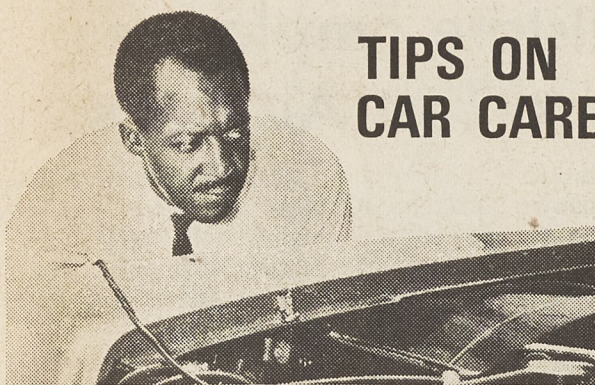

There should be no subrogation or behind-the-scenes fault-finding.

Each insurance company should pay all its own insured accident victims without regard to fault. All reasonable and necessary medical, hospital and rehabilitation costs should be paid monthly as the bills come in and for as long as they continue.

BASIC LIMITS

Basic limits everyone should have, but which could be increased to suit individual needs, would include wage losses up to $750 per month for a period of up to two years and funeral and burial expenses up to $1,000.

Other basic limits would be survivor benefits up to $750 per month for the period of dependency and up to $75 per week for up to two years for all ordinary and necessary replacement ser-

TIPS ON CAR CARE

Low Blows to Car Can Be Dangerous

Tom was driving on a crowded freeway when a muffler and tail pipe fell from a car ahead and spun into his path.

Unable to stop or dodge, he managed to straddle it, but a hard jolt shook his car as he rammed it and passed over it.

Tom knew the blow was hard enough to cause serious trouble. He thought of damage to the oil pan under the engine and looked into the rear-view mirror to see if oil was spilling onto the road. It wasn't.

He slowed down to see if the car was steering and holding the road properly. It seemed O.K. He kept going, keeping an eye on the oil pressure warning light, ready to stop at the first sign of trouble. Nothing appeared to be wrong in 10 or 12 miles, so he decided he had been lucky and forgot the incident.

Several nights later, on the way home from work vices, such as house-keeping for an injured housewife.

Other guidelines are also suggested in the Fireman's Fund booklet, which calls upon concerned motorists to study the booklet, urge their friends to do the same and then let state legislators know what kinds of reforms are needed.

The booklet ends with a call for action, pointing out that "if you have been dissatisfied with the present system and unhappy with the costs...and if you thought you had no choice but to pay and pay, now is your chance to do something about it."

At McDonald's it's always "service with a smile" — and heavy on the "service!"

At McDonald's, we believe that a smile should be the decoration on each package of service. After all, snappy service is the reason you come here so often. And the always-good food, of course. Ditto the sparkling clean surroundings. That's the magic combination that makes McDonald's "your kind of place!". And the smile helps make it a "happy place," besides.

McDonald's is your kind of place.
